MONEY before PASSION

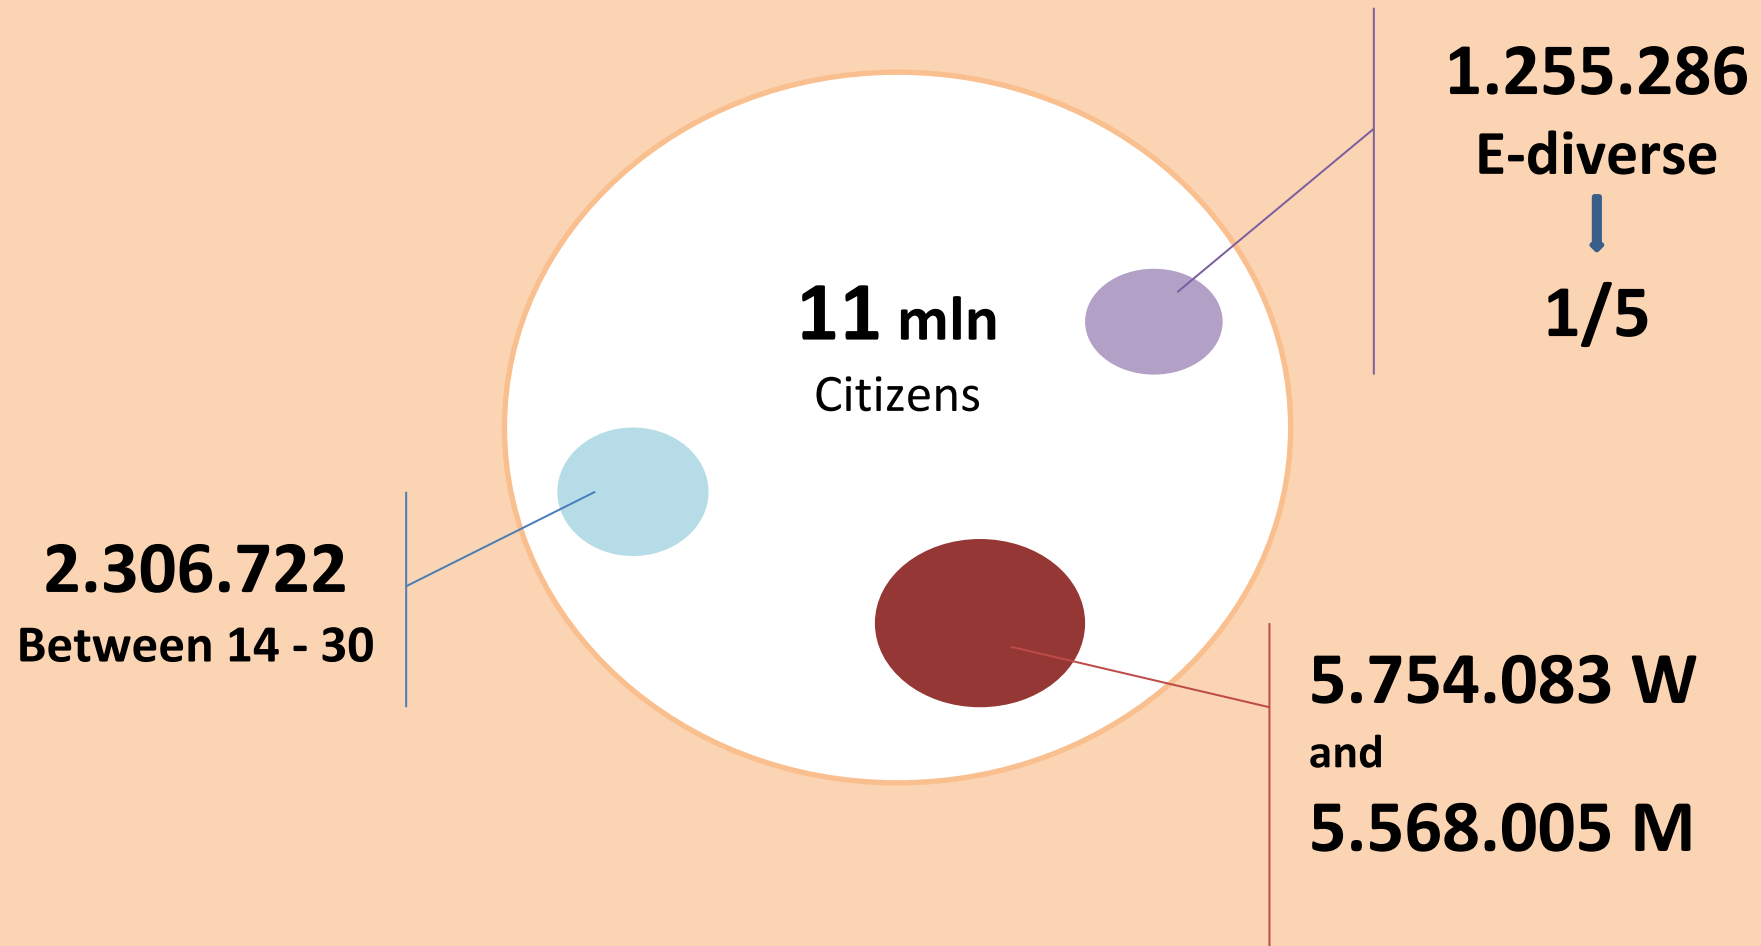

An aerial night photograph of a city, showing a dense network of glowing orange and yellow lights representing streets and buildings. The lights are concentrated in the center and right side of the frame, with some scattered lights on the left. The background is a solid black, making the illuminated city stand out.

A large crowd of people is shown from behind, filling the lower half of the frame. Many of their hands are raised in the air, suggesting they are at a concert or a large gathering. The background is dark, with some light reflecting off the crowd. In the upper left, there are two large, light-orange arrows pointing in opposite directions (one up, one down). To the right of the upward arrow is the word 'Together' and to the right of the downward arrow is the word 'Alone'.

The background of the slide features a light blue and white pixelated grid pattern. Overlaid on this are several abstract, pixelated shapes in shades of blue and grey, resembling stylized clouds or architectural elements. A solid orange horizontal band spans the width of the slide, serving as a background for the text.
